Review a Systems Approach to Planning COVID-19 Recovery

Workshop Summary: The Mayor and Council liked the Healthy Community model and discussed how it might be used in COVID-19 recovery and linked to the budget and their priorities.

Consultant Recommendations: Consider linking the Health Community Model to the Mayor and Council agenda development process.

Recovery from COVID-19 for communities will be a complicated. What can Alameda potentially use to guide the city through its COVID -19 recovery efforts? The Arizona Town Hall will be using the Elements of Health Community Model to work with communities over the next year on building plans for COVID-19 recovery. The model was developed by the Vitalyst Health Foundation <http://vitalysthealth.org/> in Arizona. The Arizona Town Hall will use the model as a checklist for communities to take a more comprehensive approach to COVID-19 recovery.

The following link provides more information on the Healthy Community model.

<https://www.dropbox.com/s/1h43alxerfmhx5/Healthy-Communities-and-social-determinants-final.pdf?dl=0> During the workshop the Mayor and Council can discuss if this model may or may not be useful to use as a guide for the city as it recovers from COVID-19.

Review Innovations for Citizen Engagement

Workshop Summary: The Mayor and Council discussed having standards for Boards and Commissions, periodic updates at Council meetings, promoting diversity in membership, having them do studies on issues to advise the Mayor and Council and considering a Marana, Arizona Model to consolidate some Board and Commissions.

Consultant Recommendations: Consider implementing the Marana Citizens Forum and the other ideas discussed under the summary.

Citizen Engagement is essential to creating a thriving community. The following are tools used by City's to engage their citizens:

Review and Discuss Tools for Supporting Mayor and Council Effectiveness

Workshop Summary: The Mayor and Council discussed each component of the Governance Relations System (GRS) and how it may help them work more effectively with each other and the City Manager.

Consultant Recommendations: Consider hiring a consultant to assist the Mayor and Council and City Manager in developing the (GRS).

This section of the workshop will introduce two tools for improving Mayor and Council effectiveness. The Governance Relations System (GRS) is designed to provide a system for establishing expectations for the Mayor and Council and City Manager. GRS will be introduced using an example from the City of Goodyear, Arizona. If it's determined at the Workshop that the GRS would be beneficial to the City, the Mayor and Council can develop it at a future Workshop. The second tool, The Policy Model can be discussed and developed at the Workshop if it has value for the City to use in the future.

"Governing boards have been known in one form or another for centuries. Yet throughout those many years there has been a baffling failure to develop a coherent or universally applicable understanding of just what a board is for."

Carver's Policy Governance Model in Nonprofit Organizations

Governance Relations System (Example Only) @bridgegroupllc

The role of a Governing Board is often difficult to define. It is this lack of clarity within the roles of the Governing Board that results in a disconnect between the Governing Board and the Chief Executive. Ideally, the role of an elected Public Board is to set policy. The implementation of that policy and responsibility for the day-to-day operations of the organization reside with the Chief Executive or City Manager. What's missing?

The answer is: established expectations that the Board has for the Executive or Manager. The Governance Relations System (GRS) is designed to create a bridge between the Elected Board's expectations of their Chief Executive (City Manager) and the execution of the day-to-day operations of the organization. The GRS also sets expectations for the Board to support the success of the Chief Executive.

"Help is on the way"

The GRS includes FOUR areas:

1. Expectations of the Organization
2. Performance Expectation of the Chief Executive
3. Expectations of the Elected Board
4. Expectations of Customer Service/Civic Engagement
5. Expectations for Role of the Mayor (This section could be added to Alameda)

These areas provide general guidelines for how the organization will be managed, the expected conduct of the Board, the manner in which services will be provided and opportunities for engagement with citizens. The key to making the GRS work is the partnership/collaboration between the Elected Board and Chief Executive to set clear expectations on how the organization will operate. The GRS can be viewed as a series of interconnected gears that drive the organization and its management and leadership priorities.

The GRS is designed to improve the relationship between the Governing Board and Chief Executive and their collective effectiveness. The expectations set benchmarks for annually evaluating the efforts of the Board and the Chief Executive. The expectations can be amended and adjusted over time to keep them relevant to the municipality. The bar is set high with these expectations, but the journey in the search for governance excellence is never easy. Each step forward or times when these expectations are not met, are all part of trying to be the best governed municipality for the organization's citizens and employees.

The following is the link to the complete article on the Policy Model
<https://www.dropbox.com/s/fekh8nqgdn73icf/Policy%20Model%20Article.pdf?dl=0>. The model will be discussed at the Workshop for its applicability to Alameda. The specific content or wording in the model can be adjusted to requirements of the City.

Workshop Summary: The Mayor and Council liked the Policy Model and discussed ways to link it to the agenda development process.

Consultant Recommendations: The Policy Model should be considered for adoption by the Mayor and Council after any changes recommended by staff.

Figure 1 illustrates the process for using the policy models. The process is designed to evaluate the policy or issue the Mayor and Council are considering

Figure 2 shows policy models that can be a key guidepost to strategic policy development. The policy models and subsequent definitions are not meant to be all-inclusive. The concepts or models can be adapted to meet the unique needs of the governing body and staff.

Components of the strategic policy development system can be changed and policy models altered to fit your particular needs. In my experience working with governing bodies for more than 30 years, these models represent the key components or drivers that create the push for public-policy formulation.

Compass approach. Policy development is based on community values, approved plan, or strategic approach.

Best-practice approach. Policy is based on best-practice principles.

Opportunity approach. Policy development is based on significant community and/or organizational benefit.

"Help is on the way"
BridgeGroup LLC
Management Consultants

Politically based approach. Policy is based on narrow intent from special-interest groups or constituents. I would replace this Approach with one titled: Fiscal Sustainability approach
Policy developed takes into account city's ability to fund its operations long term

Core business/staff-recommended approach. Policy is based on the requirement to run government's core business functions and is recommended by staff to improve services, internal operations, and policies.

In terms of policy models, more is better. Try out the model and see how it works. Groundwork has to be done for strategic policy development to work. A number of critical issues also have to be considered:

- Time required, the more the better. Thinking ahead and developing an annual work plan is important to provide the time to fully evaluate important policies that the governing board will consider.
- Staff capacities to effectively implement the policy. Are there enough worker bees to get the job done? This needs to be fully evaluated by the governing board and staff before time is spent developing the policy.
- Committee referral before consideration. This is a no-brainer. It always helps to have a committee recommendation.
- Communication of need and outcomes. Unfortunately, the clear and concise communication of the need for the policy is often overlooked. Get the sound bites determined before the policy-formulation process starts.

NO EASY ANSWERS

An approach and model for strategic policy development is needed. The approach described in this article is based on experience and what I have seen work and not work behind the curtain of policy formulation. Managers know there are no easy answers or solutions to policy development. But like all journeys, it begins with one step and the compass, map, or GPS to get you to the destination.

Develop Project and Policy Priorities for FY 2021

Workshop Summary: The Mayor and Council had extensive discussions on the work priorities from the December 2019 Workshop and new potential projects/policies identified in the survey. Council expressed concerns about staff's workload and ability to complete all of the project/policy priorities.

“Help is on the way”
BridgeGroup LLC
Management Consultants

Consultant Recommendations: Consider adding specific timelines for completing the project/policy identified in the work plan. Determining specific timelines for each project will allow the Mayor and Council and staff to prioritize what projects/policies can be completed in a specific fiscal year and which need to be moved to subsequent years.

This is the section of the Workshop where any ideas the Mayor and Council want to consider for future projects/policies from the information presented on healthy community model, citizen engagement and the Governance Relations System (GRS). Also potential policies and projects identified in the confidential Mayor and Council Workshop survey and from the December, 2019 Workshop (Note: Projects listed in Blue) will be discussed in this section. The facilitator will guide the Mayor and Council through this Workshop section using the Start With Why format. Staff will record the results of the discussion on a screen that can be viewed during the meetings by the participants.

Start With WHY @bridgegroupllc

The Mayor and Council Workshop will focus on creating dialogue and discussion opportunities between council members and staff. The format that will be used to facilitate this dialogue will be based on an approach developed by Simon Sinek in the book Start With Why: How Great Leaders Inspire Everyone to Take Action. By Starting with “WHY” the Mayor and Council and staff can quickly evaluate the proposed projects and policy discussed at the Workshop by using a FOUR Questions approach:

1. What do we want to do? (Mayor and Council)
2. Why do we want to do it? (Mayor and Council/Staff)
3. How will we do it? (Staff- Tactical determined after Workshop))
4. How do we make sure it works? (Mayor and Council/Staff- Performance Measurement)

What do we want to do?

- Discuss and Identify specific projects or policy initiatives for FY 2021

Why do we want to do it?

- Identify WHY it is important for the Mayor and Council to consider action on projects or policy initiatives. Please note the list below on DEFINING the Why WE Want to Do IT

How will we do it?

- Based on Mayor and Council discussion at the Workshop the staff will develop future agenda item for their action.

How do we make sure it works?

- Determine if the agenda item has a current performance measure, requires a new performance measure or no performance measure.

DEFINING the Why WE Want to Do IT

To Improve:

- ❖ Operational Performance
- ❖ Policies
- ❖ Procedure
- ❖ Programs
- ❖ Racial Justice
- ❖ Equity
- ❖ Finances
- ❖ Risk Management
- ❖ Technology
- ❖ Customer Service
- ❖ Sustainability

Senge Chart

The Senge Chart is an excellent tool to rate the impact of the proposed policy or project and gauge its difficulty to accomplish. The goal is to focus on projects or policies that are rated 1 or 2.

	PROJECT IS EASY TO ACCOMPLISH	PROJECT IS DIFFICULT TO ACCOMPLISH
HIGH IMPACT ON City	1	2
LOW IMPACT ON City	3	4

Focus Area Charts

The Focus Area Charts will be used during the Workshop to develop project and policy initiatives for FY 2021. The Charts will be built on the Focus Areas developed in the Mayor and Council December, 2019 Workshop. The Charts will include the following:

Focus Areas- The strategic priorities for the City

Project/Policy- The proposed project or policy

To Improve- Reference To Improve list of areas the policy or project will improve

Senge Chart Rating- Rating assigned during facilitation to the policy or project.

Strategic Operating Policy

Workshop Summary: The Mayor and Council discussed how the Strategic Operating Policy would work and its benefits for Alameda.

Consultant Recommendations: The Strategic Operating Policy should be considered for adoption by the Mayor and Council after any changes recommended by staff.

How can a Strategic Operating Policy help the City of Alameda focus? Implementing key city priorities takes discipline and collaboration between the Mayor and City Council, City Manager and Staff.

The City of Alameda will use its annual Priorities and Work Plan to:

1. Develop the operating budget.
2. Consider projects from the Climate Action and Resiliency Plan (CARP), General Plan, Economic Development Plan and other approved Mayor and Council plans
3. Develop new projects and assign them to specific departments for execution.

What specific steps will Alameda take every year to focus its strategic efforts?

1. The Priorities and Work Plan will be updated annually during the budget process.
2. Mayor and City Council and City Manager are committed to making sure that staff has the time and resources to complete the projects in the plan.
3. If new project(s) are added to the work plan after it is approved during the fiscal year, the Mayor and Council will work with the City Manager to determine what project(s) currently in the plan need to be reprioritized and moved to a future fiscal year.
